The role of notary in initial public offering of shares of a limited liability company in Indonesia is important, particularly in producing notarial deed of related agreements, in administering the General Shareholders Meeting and in composing amendment of the articles of association. A normative legal research, i.e. a legal research which is conducted by doing comprehensive study on literatures, is necessary to know and to analyze to what extent the role and involvement, as well as the responsibilities of notary in the process of initial public offering of shares of a limited liability company in Indonesia.

The data used in this research is secondary data. Analysis of the data was done by using a combination methods of the statute approach and the conceptual approach. From these results, we can conclude to what extent the role and involvement as well as the responsibilities of notary in the administration of the General Shareholders Meeting as well as the production of authentic deeds of the agreements entered into in connection with the process of initial public offering of shares of a limited liability company.
