

By implementing a policy that can curb the entry of the Chinese illegal workers into the country, Indonesia will be able to offer more jobs to the eligible locals to help improve their standards of living. Fewer Indonesians will then choose to immigrate to other Asian countries in search of jobs. In addition, government and administrative agencies will have more effective methods of monitoring foreigners into the country to enable them allocate available resources more effectively. The Chinese illegal workers will also avoid entering the country due to the stringent measures enforced, giving way for only the qualified foreigners to enter Indonesia. These qualified foreigners can be useful in development and economic growth. Therefore, the new proposed laws will protect our country without decreasing the foreign investment to help the development of our nation, Republic of Indonesia.
