

ACKNOWLEDGEMENTS

It is with great humility that the Author presents this thesis entitled “Women in the Indonesian Parliament (Affirmative Action Study on the Political Rights of Women in the 1945 Constitution)”. It is His blessings that allowed the Author to complete this thesis in a timely manner. This thesis is written for the purpose of fulfilling 1 (one) of the academic requirements to obtain a Bachelor of Laws Degree in Universitas Pelita Harapan, Faculty of Law.

The Author extends her deepest gratitude for the support and contribution of the following parties that played a direct and/or indirect role in the formation of this thesis:

1. To Prof. Dr. Bintan R. Saragih, S.H., as the Dean of the Faculty of Law, for his decades of dedication towards the growth of our faculty.
2. To Dr. Veliana Tanaya, S.H., M.H. as the Director of the faculty of Law, for her support and kindness shown throughout the Author’s years of study.
3. To Dr. Vincensia Esti Purnama Sari, S.H., M.Hum., as the Head of the Faculty of Law, for her guidance in all administrative matters and support.
4. To Dr. Susi Susantijo, S.H., LL.M, as the Author’s Main Supervisor, who has shown compassion and extended support in the drafting process.
5. To Dwi Putra Nugraha, S.H., M.H. as the Author’s Co-Advisor, who has shown great interest in helping the Author and encouraged the Author to always go the extra mile in drafting this thesis. Thank you for patience and guidance extended at each and every step of the drafting process.

6. Dr. iur. Dian Parluhutan, S.H., LL.M. as the Author's academic advisor who has shown humility in every interaction both within and beyond the 4 (four) walls of the classrooms.
7. To Jessica Los Banos, for pushing the Author to pursue this topic, for the lessons taught during the 9 (nine) intensive months spent in preparation for the 2020 Foreign Direct Investment Moot Competition and for spending hours and hours training the team with absolute patience. You have shown the true meaning of humility and inspired me to never stop learning.
8. To the Author's parents, for being the sole reason the Author keeps striving to do her very best. For offering patience, love, comfort, with a side of wit at all times. Everything that I am, and everything that I do is because and for you. The Author also extends gratitude to the Vasandanis and Chotranis for their affection and encouragement.
9. To the Author's brother, who has been through every step of her professional and personal life, both virtually and physically. Thank you for always being 1 (one) text away and reminding the Author that she should carry her heart with courage. I hope I can one day be of help and value to you, as you are to me. I promise you I am worth the headache.
10. To the Author's best friends, Abhishek Pursnani, Dennis Kumar, Giovanni Darmawan, Gurveer Singh, Kezia Flara Lauwrend, Louis Brian Hsu, Matthew Setiabudhi, Micheline Hendrito, Nikhil Harilela, Rithik Asrani, Rithwik Nathani, Shivani Khiani, Tasya Danashta, Yemima Celine Marvela, and many others for helping the Author laugh through life and for inducing little bits of happiness even in the toughest of days.

11. To the Author's dormmates Aubrey Azaria Wullur, Evelyn, Meldea Maudy Marischa, Sharent Vanessa, and Venessa Augustin, for making the Annex Building feel like home, for our adventures together, for making me laugh till my sides hurt, and for everything else that is impossible to list down.
12. To the Author's work buddies, Andhyka Demitra, Arvel Raihan, Fabian Jonathan, Randall Joshua Partogi, and Putu Ayu Tsabita Nararya, who have taught the Author patience and have always agreed to go above and beyond in making assignments. Thank you for dealing with me for the past 4 (four) years. The same gratitude is extended to the International Law class of 2018. I know I will look back fondly upon our days together.
13. To the Author's girls, Athala Aulia Fardha, Dhena Deandra Putri, Flores Mae Yani, Stephanie Casily, and Tasya Mahira Latuasan for the nights that turned into days and moments that turned into memories. Thank you for leaving me with so much to talk about when I grow older. Without you guys, my university life would never be half as eventful.
14. To the Author's seniors, who have all guided the Author through the competitions and given me a numerous professional and personal advice, Alfred Adiprasetyo, Hana Milenia Carissa, Jessica Penny, Joy Budiana, Monica Tjahjono, Natasya Gabriela, Riani Karina Anjasari, Sharon Cahyadi, Sri Purnama, Tedo Haris Chandra, and Vallery Melita Mulyani.

The Author realizes that this thesis is still far from perfect and that there still may be shortcomings within it. Therefore, the Author is open to any constructive criticism that the readers may have to offer.
