THE EFFECT OF AUDIT OPINION, AUDIT DELAY, AND FINANCIAL DISTRESS TOWARDS AUDITOR SWITCHING IN MANUFACTURING COMPANIES CONSUMER SECTOR LISTED ON S&P CAPITAL IQ
(xv. 51 pages: 1 figure; 9 tables; 6 appendices)

This study aims to examine the effect of audit opinion, audit delay, and financial distress towards auditor switching. Audit opinion is measured using the previous year's audit opinion, audit delay is measured using the difference between the date of the audit report and the closing date of the financial year, while financial distress is measured using the debt-to-equity ratio. This study uses purposive sampling to take samples and uses a logistic regression model. There are observational data of 123 companies or 369 firm-years from all public companies engaged in the consumer sector manufacturing industry listed on S&P Capital IQ in the 2018-2020 period. This study finds evidence that each audit opinion, audit delay, and financial distress has no effect on auditor switching.
