RECOMMENDATION

The researcher encourages future researchers who are interested to study similar topics to have a longer and more comprehensive session with the students to ensure students' English improvement can be measured. It is highly recommended to also be able to assess their learning result through students' formative and summative assessments. The teaching and learning session could be approximately done in one semester. For Christian teachers, utilizing meaningful Biblical learning in the classroom is also recommended to make sure that students learn that God is involved in every part of their lives. Having to see students' commitments throughout the lesson is highly recommended to ensure that meaningful learning has been properly conducted.

Last but not least, the teacher must acknowledge the limitations of this study by only having five weeks of observation along with six teaching sessions. The teacher cannot fully see the final result of the chosen teaching method as she has limited time to stay in the school. This limitation can be a reference for future researchers to improve their studies and explore more into students' ongoing practices and commitments during their English learning journey.
