Internet technology automatically influences the development of data analysis in several sectors, one of which is social media. Data analytics itself is a data processing method that is able to unify the substance of each data collected from various sources to be converted into a big picture of the information needed. Thus, nowadays many social media use analytical data tools to develop their features to be better (Alfajri, et al, 2019).

Social Media is online media that supports social interaction. Social Media has become the main pillars in the delivery of information, it is used for socialization of programs and policies, introducing products and the product's potential, and restoring and improving the image of social media can be used as a means for community to learn (Suryani, 2017). With the existence of social media communication and dissemination of information occurs very quickly so consumer will increasingly want to know information quickly that can be accessed at any time. Since the emergence of the community will be more easily connected to interact with each other, customers communicate, behave, work, and think in a digital society (Supratman, 2018).

Social media in this era of globalization is viral among teenagers in Indonesia. Nowadays, social media is an obligation that teenagers think they must have and it has influence on the lives of today's generation. Social media offers many features that do not require face-to-face contact but is able to bring both parties together remotely. Social media can be a medium for learning about entrepreneurship and fostering interest in becoming entrepreneurs for teenagers. Lots of young entrepreneurs today have businesses through social media. People who use social media find it easier to buy something without having to go out of the house to shop, now with just one button, people can order all the items they need or want. The ease of finding various sources is what makes social media a primary need that is always around. Social media has bad impact that can lead children who are not old enough to disclose things that they should not see or experience. The more information is disseminated, the more data is stored in the social media. In assisting the dissemination of this unstructured information, there are analytics tools that focus on the social media analytics business called social media analytics (SMA). Social media analytics is getting a lot of attention, which is defined as an emerging interdisciplinary field of research aimed at combining, expanding, and adapting methods for the analysis of social media data (Noprianto, 2018).

Social media is often used by many people nowadays, especially the use of Instagram as social media. In the digital transformation data world in 2019, Instagram ranks 5th as the most-used social media platform in the world today (Ahmad, 2019). The use of Instagram as social media in Indonesia ranks 3 as the most active users and there also 62 million times each month are used as marketing media (Social, 2019). Instagram is one of the social media that has implemented SMA in the application of its user business. Instagram application is a fairly simple application because it only displays images and videos for specific duration with given space to write and comment for people who become managers and followers (Satyadewi, et al 2017). Currently, Instagram is not only a means of communication and information, but it has plagued several sectors, especially marketing.

Brand image is referred to as a set of associations that are generally systematized in some meaningful way. Kotler and Armstrong (2018) stated that the brand is not just a name or symbol, but the brand becomes a key element in the relationship between the company and its customers. Consumers attach great importance to brands and attribute their prestige to different brands. They see brands from different perspectives and expect better quality brands. Over time if the brand fulfills the customer's needs then they become loyal to the brand and build a long-term relationship with that particular brand. Customers give importance to all those factors which are related to their selected brands. If a consumer wants something on urgent basis and that product or brand does not exist in the market. Then the customers become anxious and it may be possible that the consumer will switch to some other brand. A successful brand image allows consumers to recognize the needs that the brand satisfies and to distinguish the brand from its competitors, and increases the probability that consumers will purchase the product from the brand. A company's product or services can gain a better position in the market, sustainable competitive advantage, and increase market share.

According to Aulia and Wardhana, et al. (2018), if the customer has a positive image of a brand, then there is a probability that customer will purchase the product again. Conversely, if the brand image is negative, then the probability for the occurrence for the customer to purchase the product again is small. Based on the description above, brand image is a perception of the brand in the minds of consumers that forms consumer's confidence in a brand. Based on research conducted by Rizan and Mukhtar (2017), there is a positive and significant influence between brand image and consumer buying interest.
