ABSTRACT

The Business Feasibility Study is conducted to assess the feasibility of a business, namely Enclave Café & Library, considering the initial concept, marketing aspects, operational aspects, human resources, and financial aspects. The idea for establishing this business arises from the author's observation of significant growth in the food and beverage industry, supported by the interest of young people in visiting a café. The data collection methods employed include distributing questionnaires, observation, and literature review. The study has a robust and reliable dataset with 350 respondents. In analyzing the marketing aspects, the author utilizes Porter's Five Forces analysis, Strengths, Weaknesses, Opportunities, and Threats (SWOT) analysis, Segmentation, Targeting, and Positioning (STP) analysis, marketing mix analysis, and Business Model Canvas (BMC). Operational aspect analysis involves determining the location, identifying types of activities, and specifying facilities and technology needed to support operational activities. The organizational and human resources aspect analyzes the organizational structure and human resource management. The financial aspect analysis, using investment appraisal methods, concludes that the Enclave Café & Library business is viable based on calculations of the payback period, Net Present Value (NPV), Profitability Index (PI), Weighted Average Cost of Capital (WACC), and Internal Rate of Return (IRR).
