JUDICIAL REVIEW OF THE LEGAL CONSEQUENCES OF THE IMPOSITION OF FIDUCIARY ON INVENTORY OBJECTS
(ix + 51 pages)

The current economic conditions are highly influenced by the impact of economical globalization. In this condition, people are trying their best to become the best company. Due to that reason, many businessmen are competing each other to expand their business and become number one on the line. Unfortunately, it is not a rare thing that they can’t expand their business due to their lacking of capital and fund. So, in order to expand their business, they need to borrow money to be used as the modal and capital in expanding their company. As they borrow the money to creditors, they need to give guarantee to the creditors and in this opportunity, the kind of guarantee that will be analyzed is fiduciary on inventory/stock. The method used in this research is qualitative. The results of the research are according to the government regulation it is stated that since 2013, the procedure to register fiduciary is using online methods. The manual methods are not in use anymore. As we all know, inventory or stock is something that could be diverted to other people other than the creditor, so if there are any diverting, the debtor has to replace the inventory and register the object used as the substitution of the old inventory.
