Film in the modern age is included to be as mass media, where it could connect towards people through moving images, sounds, dramas, and many more. Film can be made as an entertainment or to teach valuable lessons in life. Bold Messenger is a film production house that taught us about teach valuable lessons through social media and films. Their goal is to connect people with their spiritual belief to many people. Which is why media is a powerful tool that can spread any kind of messages; Bold Messenger is focus on spreading “the word of God” to the audiences.

In a film production, types of roles are needed in order for the film production to go on, which is script writer and props master. A script writer’s role is to write down a story which is suited for the production house and the audience, while as a props master role is to ensure that the items needed for the shot are available and not damaged.
