

FOREWORD

Praise be to God and to all the blessings given from Him to complete and finish this final project. This research project titled “THE COMPARISON OF PERCEIVED MATERNAL PARENTAL AUTHORITY STYLES AND RESILIENCE IN LATE ADOLESCENTS OF LOW SOCIO-ECONOMIC STATUS” is aimed at completing partially the academic requirements to obtain the undergraduate program of Psychology, of the faculty of psychology of Universitas Pelita Harapan, Tangerang, Banten. The writer acknowledges that without the guidance, help and prayers of various parties, this final project would not have been completed in time. For this reason the writer would like to thank all of these different parties that were of generous help in the process of writing this final research project. This foreword is directed to:

1. God that has placed this project in my heart during the COVID-19 pandemic after completing the course of Crisis Psychology, God who directed me into the right direction for me, who gave me the strength and resilience to complete this project in time, despite the many obstacles that arose during the process.
2. Sir Yonathan Aditya, Ph.D., as the Decan of the faculty of psychology of Universitas Pelita Harapan, who treated me with discipline and grace, and who directed me throughout many courses to find my calling in counseling and psychotherapy.
3. Miss Jessica Ariela, S.Psi., M.A., as the head of the program of psychology and the associate dean of the faculty of psychology, as well as my examiner of my research study, my lecturer in my crisis counseling class who helped me realize my passion for the topic of poverty and resilience.
4. Miss Sandra Handayani Sutanto, M.Psi, my supervisor since the Seminar Penelitian course who supervised my project from the beginning to end, who gracefully directed me into the right topic after having completed two chapters of the wrong topic, who pushed me to finish on time, whose insight and input helped me think clearly all throughout this research. Thank you for your dedication and patience with me.

5. The family of the writer, mum and dad, my brother Hugues and sister Laure, as well as my grandmother Jeanne who have encouraged me, reviewed with me, given me strength and reassured me of my capabilities in writing and finishing this research project.
6. To all the professors who have taught so passionately. The writer is very grateful for having been their student, for having discussed with them and be directed by them, who have helped the writer realize of the importance of this study and this program of psychology in her life.
7. The church friends of the writer, Kizzy Nanik, Marchella Kalligis, my very own psychologist and counselors, who have helped me through difficult times, who have helped me in the research methodology, who were there to help mentally and emotionally. Thank you for your kind friendship and wisdom.
8. The university friends, Alicia Mahaputri Gunawan, Natasha Celia, Monique Surjono, Felicia Sutanto, who were my first friends and who accepted me as an Indonesian, as a Javanese, and as a friend. Thank you for helping me in the research methodology, for the long night calls reviewing the SPSS workbook, and for helping me with my Indonesian. The writer is very grateful for the time, dedication, and acceptance you have presented towards the writer.
9. My mentor Janice Alberta, who has given so much of her time to direct the writer in the right direction, who has given all her resources to build up the writer's strength.

10. The multitude of organisations who helped me obtain my data, Yayasan KDM, Wahana, and most importantly Sekolah Alternatif Anak Jalanan (SAAJA) with whom this research would not have been completed. The writer is eternally grateful for the participation of the adolescents.

11. To Lukas Marthinus Bester, my best friend, my co-supervisor, who helped me review, rewrite, rephrase my research project from beginning to end, who helped me regain my strength and confidence when times were difficult, when obstacles arose. To you, the writer is sempiternally grateful for your presence all throughout the research project, truly without you this research would not have been as efficacious as it is.

Lastly, the writer is aware that there are stil many lackings in this final project. Therefore, critics and suggestions from the reader will be very beneficial and appreciated for the writer. Hopefully this final project will benefit all the parties reading this creation.
