In the rapidly evolving era of globalization, dynamic changes impact various aspects of life, including culture. This study aims to explore the influence of entertainment, interactivity, trendiness, and electronic word of mouth on brand loyalty, mediated by brand awareness and perceived quality, among Lookcals accessories consumers in Surabaya. The research provides practical benefits as a foundation for understanding how brand loyalty affects long-term consumer relationships and serves as a strategic guide for Lookcals in formulating effective marketing approaches. Through in-depth analysis, the study reveals that entertainment, interactivity, trendiness, and electronic word of mouth significantly and positively contribute to brand loyalty, with brand awareness and perceived quality playing a mediating role. These findings underscore the importance of these factors in building accessory marketing strategies focused on enhancing consumer loyalty. The implications suggest that business players in the accessory industry can leverage positive consumer reviews to establish a strong brand image, increase product appeal, and ultimately drive sustainable sales growth.
